

Things to be aware of:

- First Reformed Church has subscribed to Right Now Media for use by the church family and accessible from your home. This Sunday, Bethany will give instructions about how to use this valuable resource. Watch the service on Sunday to learn more about it.
- Tentative upcoming worship plans.

Until further notice, worship services will continue to be on Channel 12 and live streamed (on the church's website www.hullfrc.org). The tech crew is working out the bugs in the system to bring you the best quality of transmission that is possible. Please be patient as those issues are identified and corrected. Thanks Glenn Koele and team for your hard work.

We have no clear idea when we'll be back in corporate worship so we are envisioning what some of that might look like.

Some things to consider:

MAUNDY THURSDAY COMMUNION: The Maundy Thursday Communion Service is scheduled for 7:00 P.M. on Thursday, April 9. For you to participate in Communion, consider having bread and juice in your home and prepare your own communion elements.

EASTER SUNRISE: Again, this service is canceled – however we are considering a pre-recorded service that would be available to you first thing Easter morning.

EASTER: Wouldn't it be great to celebrate the Resurrection of Jesus Christ together! Actually, that is exactly what we do each Sunday morning – but, again, given the circumstances we are brainstorming ideas to make Easter morning an impactful and meaningful time of worship. In reality, whenever we are able to gather in the sanctuary again will be a full, Easter-like experience.

- The Pastoral Search Team's Church Leader Survey. They are looking for input from the congregation as to traits, characteristics and expectations for our next leader. The Search Team would like you to fill out the survey and return it to church or you can complete the online version of this survey too. Please submit your responses as soon as possible.
